TRAUMA TRAINING INFORMATION

What is Trauma Training?

Helps foster, adoptive, and kinship families better understand how trauma, loss, grief, and separation can affect a child's behavior, emotions, and development. This training provides practical tools to help caregivers respond with patience, build trust, create stability, and support healing in the home. Families will learn trauma-informed parenting strategies, including how to manage challenging behaviors, strengthen connections, and create safe, nurturing environments for children in their care.

Trauma training includes three sessions:

Trauma I Focuses on brain development, how early trauma impacts a child's nervous system, and why understanding this is crucial for effective caregiving.

Trauma II Looks at the bodily systems affected by trauma and teaches caregivers how to observe patterns of behavior to discover the child's underlying needs.

Trauma III Covers practical, trauma-focused strategies to help children build emotional regulation, cope with difficult behaviors, and heal from loss.

Reminder: Trauma I, Trauma II, and Trauma III are designed to be completed as a full trauma training series.

KTFC TRAINING INFORMATION

KTFC trainings are listed within their corresponding schedule months. Participants are required to complete all four KTFC training sessions in a round.

What is KTFC?

KTFC training prepares kinship caregivers to support children with complex emotional and behavioral needs. Families will gain practical tools and additional knowledge to understand trauma and its impact on child development and attachment.

The training builds skills to respond to challenging behaviors, manage crises, and support children affected by separation, trauma, and loss. Caregivers will also learn how to access services and supports that help meet children's needs and foster a caring, supportive environment.

KTFC training helps caregivers:

- Build an understanding of trauma, child development, and attachment.
- Develop skills to respond to challenging behaviors and manage crises.
- Support children who have experienced separation, trauma, and loss.
- Access services and supports that promote a caring, supportive environment.

Important: Participants are required to complete all four KTFC training sessions in order to complete a KTFC round.

KTFC rounds are included in their corresponding schedule months throughout this brochure.

IN-SERVICE TRAINING CATEGORIES

In-service trainings are organized into three categories to help families choose trainings that best fit the needs of the child, caregiver, and family system while fulfilling annual in-service training requirements.

Child Needs

Centers the child's lived experience, diagnosis, trauma history, and developmental realities.

Caregiver Needs

Builds caregiver capacity, cultural humility, parenting skills, and sustainability.

Processes/Services

Helps families navigate systems, policies, and formal supports.

Note: Families may complete trainings across all categories based on current caregiving needs.

Training categories are provided to help families identify topics that best support their needs.

What is Traditional Foster Parent Training?

Traditional Foster Parent training is designed for families who have already completed Kinship Pre-Service training and are transitioning to become certified as traditional foster parents.

This two-session training reviews key expectations, responsibilities, placement considerations, and available supports to help families move from kinship caregiving into the traditional foster parent role.

Families also receive guidance on certification requirements and how to support children and families within the child welfare system.

Traditional Foster Parent training helps families:

- Understand the additional requirements for becoming a traditional foster parent.
- Build confidence in the expectations, responsibilities, and supports related to traditional foster care.
- Prepare for certification and next steps within the child welfare system.

Important: Families are required to complete both TFP training sessions in order to meet this training requirement and move forward with certification as a traditional foster parent.
